The fairy forest

Once upon a time, in a distant land, there was a very sick woman who had a five-year-old daughter. Her name was Myra. The young woman who felt the end of her days approaching decided to leave her daughter in the fairy forest.

Since everyone was talking about the wonders of this forest, it was the best she could do to

Not only to avoid seeing her bruised but also to save her.

One morning, she woke up her little daughter and got her ready. After breakfast, they left in haste.

-Where are we going mom? Asked the child as soon as she noticed that they were only walking in the middle of the forest.

-Don't be afraid my darling, we are going to a fabulous world. Whatever happens, never forget that mom loves you
With all her heart, can you hear me ?

-Yes mom, why are you crying? Wiping away her tears.

-I am not crying my little Myra. Wait for me here, I'll make myself comfortable.

-All right

But she never came back. When night fell, Myra began to cry while going towards the fairy forest. It is then
That she saw a soft, golden light which attracted her and which she followed without hesitation. Once arrived, she was dazzled by the beauty of the landscape, marked by an illuminated meadow, a sparkling waterfall, brightly colored flowers, large fruit trees and a fairy. All this made her forget her condition. It is in this forest that little grew up, under the protection of the good fairy, who raised her until the age of 15.
Myra

A few kilometers from the fairy forest, there was a large palace with lots of guards, in which a king formidable reigned. The queen having died just after giving birth to Prince Simon, the latter undertook to raise your child alone with the help of servants. King Samuel had a friend who was also a king and more powerful. He had a daughter whose name was Zena. Despite her irresistible charm, Zena was unbearable

Because of her pride and arrogance. The two friends had planned to unite their children by sacred bonds of marriage.

When King Samuel told his son of his intention to marry him to Princess Zena, he contested and formally refused to marry her because of her bad character.

-I wouldn't marry her, she's so pretentious that she doesn't respect anyone... he said furiously.

-Calm down my son, people change. I can talk to her for you.

-It's not worth it, father. I will never take that girl as my wife. Then he left.

One of the guards who was listening to the scene went to report to the princess everything he had heard. Which put her very

Angry, because she was in love with Prince Simon and wanted to marry him. To take revenge, she decided to cast a spell on him, which will consist of seeing her in every woman and thinking only of her. Despite the prince's refusal regarding this union, the king still undertook the preparations for the marriage without however, talk to him about it. It was one of his guards who informed him. Immediately, he ran away and went far from the palace. He took his horse, then galloped to the fairy forest. The moment he crossed this enchanting landscape, he was amazed by its beauty. While he was admiring the place where he was, the teenage Myra approached him.

-Welcome to the fairy forest, holding his hand to greet him. He jumped and responded.

-Hey Zena, what are you doing here alone ?

-I am not alone, I live with my mother the good fairy, here in this magical world. And then my name is Myra and not Zena...But the spell made him see the face of the princess in every woman he came across on his path. That's why he continued to call her like that.

-Zena, why do you live in this forest? It's true that this place is magnificent. Where are your guards? And your father the king where is it? Myra didn't understand the meaning of all these questions and was speechless. This is how the good fairy intervened.

-Hello my prince

-Yes hello, how did you know that I am a prince?

-I'm a fairy, can't you see?

-Ah okay, what are you doing in this forest with Princess Zena? The latter smiled then replied

-This is my daughter, turning towards Myra, then the prince asked

-Zena why didn't you tell me that the queen has magical powers? Furious, Myra walked away...The good fairy knew the meaning of all this and went to reassure his daughter.

-Do not be angry, my child, the prince has been bewitched in his kingdom. The young girl who did this is called Zena, it is a princess. She wanted to marry him, but he didn't. When she knew he didn't want her, she cast a spell on him that would make him see her face in every woman and think only of her.

-I understand now...

-Don't worry, I'll deliver him, because I can see that you like him.

-Thank you very much, Mom, she replied, smiling.

-Please, my darling. Take this water, go give it to him. Once he drinks, he will be free from the spell.

-All right! She left quickly and handed him the water. The prince did not hesitate...After drinking, the spell was broken and he began to Admire the beauty of Myra.

-You are very beautiful my dear.

-My name is Myra.

-Myra can I make you my princess?

-Not so fast, protested the fairy. Listen my prince Myra has never lived outside this forest, she doesn't know anyone

Other than me. So if you want to marry her, you're going to have to spend a good amount of time here so you can learn how to Know you better.

-No worries, I will stay here as long as possible just to make this lovely lady my Marry. Of course, if she wants to.

-Yes I want it.

The fairy performed a magic trick to bless their union. The prince lived with them in the fairy forest for three years.

The good fairy let them go while recommending that they come and visit her from time to time. Once At the palace, King Samuel was so moved to see his son again, so much so that he organized a big wedding for the prince

And his sweetheart. This is how they got married, they lived happily and had many children.

Morality

In life, we must always adapt to any type of environment, to have the chance to brave the challenges that confront us. Overwhelm in order to realize our dreams with complete peace of mind.

A pair of magic boots

A man lived with his wife and three children. It was a very poor family. Father Christophe brings together his family one evening and spoke to it thus: « I'm going to go to a distant world ».

-Where will you go, dad ? Luc, the Young est boy, Asker, ver sad.

-Don't worry son, I will be among you.

-How so ? asked Xavier the eldest as well as Thomas the youngest.

-Will you come back darling?

-No, but I will leave you an inheritance.

-An inheritance? Retorted mother Anne and her three boys.

-I will leave and I know that it will not be easy for you to make ends meet, because of the insecurity. Listen to me carefully, once I am no longer yours, woman, you will take the pair of boots that are under our bed and you will give it to the boys. They will have to use it to change your social status. Intrigued by his father's words, Xavier asked -Who among us should wear it?

-All of you, because he knew she was a fairy, but he didn't tell them anything about it.

-Okay honey, I'll give it to them.

-To you my boys, know that this pair of boots is an heirloom. I recommend that you always wear it.

You will know how to organize yourself, given that there are three of you. I insist on this, it will be necessary carry and go with everywhere ; She will save you. It was given to me by my dad, alas! Time passed quickly expired, I could not take advantage of it since I am old now, here I leave it to you.

-Okay dad, replied the three boys.

-I'm done, good night everyone

-Good night

When morning came, Father Christophe did not wake up; He died in sleep. His family mourned him and mourned him.

After the funeral, Anne's mother went to take the pair of boots to give to her sons as their father had recommended during his life time. They were excited to finally see it. However, as soon as the mother handed it to the eldest, he was so disgusted because of the nauseating odor it gave off, so much so that he did not dare touch it. The cadet did the same. The youngest still had the courage to take it and began to wash it to get rid of the smell.

However, as he washed it, it stank and young Luc went to put it in a corner of the house.

His brothers reproached him for having kept it and ordered him to throw it away, but he did not hesitate to remind them that it is an inheritance that their father had left them.

-Have you ever seen an heirloom that gives off such a stench ? Xavier questioned, all irritated. They argued until their mother intervened.

-What is going on here ?

-Luc refuses to throw away this old pair of stinky boots, affirmed Thomas without any scruple.

-Which ?

-This one replied Luc, showing it to his mother.

But it's the pair of boots that your father gave you as an inheritance.

-Mom, have you smelled the smell of this pair of boots ? asked Thomas

-No, but an inheritance remains an inheritance, regardless of its condition.

-As for me, I never want to see this pair of boots again. If you want to keep it, I advise you to hide it, because the day I see it on my way, I would not hesitate to burn it.

-Zavier I forbid you from speaking like that, at least have the kindness to respect the memory of your father, my boy.

-Anyway, I already gave my word, and then he leaves.

Luc took the trouble to hide this pair of boots in his room. One day, while he was in the field with his mother, his brothers began to search his room. As soon as they found the pair of boots, they burned it, however it reconstituted itself a few minutes after being burned. It was at this moment that they understood that it is magical. They put her back where she was and despite this discovery, they persisted in not carrying her because of her unbearable smell.

Now the time came when there was a great famine throughout the village because of an evil dragon who took possession of the food which was found in all the fields of this community and which sowed terror by destroying everything on its passage so that the natives no longer dared to leave their huts. King Henry was also worried by this disaster, but did not know what to do to eliminate this monster, because the latter had already sent warriors to fight this dragon who was slowly destroying his kingdom, but none of them came back alive from this battle...The situation was only getting worse day by day, everyone was lamenting, but no one found a solution resolutions regarding this issue. Which prompted mother Anne to discuss it with her youngest child.

-Where did you keep the pair of Luc boots ?

-Not so loud mom, my brothers will be able to hear you and will try to destroy it. I hid it in my room, he said quietly.

-Don't you see the misfortune that overwhelms us and this entire community ? Won't your father say in his Alive that this pair of boots will save us ?

-Indeed

-So what are you waiting for my son ? Go get her and carry her to face this dragon to save this community and get us out of precariousness.

This is how he remembered his dad's words about this pair of boots. He took his courage and carried her despite his condition, to fight the evil dragon...Once on the way, the pair of boots began to talk to him.

-It's nice of you to agree to carry me despite my stench!

-Who is talking to me ? he asked, very intrigued.

-I'm the pair of boots you're wearing right now.

-Ah I see, so you are magical ?

-Of course, that's why I still exist, even after being burned by your brothers. Surprised by this revelation, he asked -How did they find you? Yet I took the trouble to hide you.

-It doesn't matter, I'm alive and that's the main thing. You are a very obedient boy and thanks to that, I had to Protect and you will be rewarded.

-Thank you, but I have a concern.

-Go talk, I'll listen to you.

-Do you think this path will lead us to this evil dragon?

-Yes, let's continue on this path, it's not very far from here.

-Okay

After having traveled a few kilometers, Lucius wanted to quench his thirst at the edge of a stream, when suddenly, the dragon appeared behind him, but the pair of boots reassured him and told him not to be afraid that he would help him...The dragon hit Luc so hard that he lost consciousness. Being in a coma, the pair of boots advised him to catch it by the tail and he will work magic to destroy the monster. As soon as Luc woke up, he did exactly what he heard. He pulled the dragon's tail with all his strength until the pair of boots did the magic. This is how the Dragon strangled itself and died. Lucs lifted the monster like a light object and decided to bring its body to the palace. Everyone he met on the way back was astounded by his bravery, so much so that they went to alert the king.

Before Luke even arrived at the palace, the king ordered preparations for a feast in his honor. The king had invited everyone on this occasion. Zavier and Thomas learned of the feat of bravery that their little brother had accomplished,

They understood that it was thanks to the pair of boots and began to regret not having listened to the voice of their late father. Mother Anne was so happy that she couldn't wait to see her youngest again. Arriving at the palace, Luc was welcomed with all possible honors. To thank him for his courage and bravery, the king decided to Marry his daughter, Princess Elisabeth. Luc therefore undertook to install his mother and his brothers in the palace. It is thus their social status changed and peace reigned throughout the kingdom until the end of time

Dino and Dina

Once upon a time, a queen gave birth to twins : a girl and a boy. These were so misshapen that the queen was ashamed of them. But she did not know that during childbirth, a fairy was right next to her and gave the princes a gift which will allow them to free themselves later. One morning, when Queen Graziella was tired of the deformity of her twins, she recommended one of her guards to get rid of them and she lied to the court royal that they have atoned for themselves. However, the guard did not harm the babies, but went to entrust them to his aunt Rachelle, who agreed without hesitation to raise them.

Rachelle was a widow and hadn't children. It was therefore a great joy for her to welcome these babies who came from the sky.

-I'll call you Dino and Dina, she said, looking at these brats. As the twins Grew up, their condition got worse, because they became uglier and uglier so that it was difficult to keep them consider them as humans, which does not bother their adoptive mother, because she loved them despite everything. When the twins reached school age, Rachelle went to enroll them, but the principal did not accept because of their deformity, on the pretext that they might frighten the other children. Since it was the only establishment in the kingdom, she decided to keep them at home in order to introduce them to rural work.

Dino and Dina hadn't friends until they were teenagers, because everyone shunned them, which saddened them even more.

One day, they went for a walk in the forest and talked while walking.

-Dino why are we rejected by others ?

-It's probably because of... He didn't dare finish his sentence.

-Ah I see, you can say it you know ? Even if it hurts.

-If only we could look good, they wished, having their eyes closed. Barely their eyes opened that they no longer recognized each other.

-Wow, Dina, you are very beautiful!

Am I dreaming or what ? You are magnificent Dino!

-What happened? They asked themselves in confusion.

-Hello twins

-Hello, who are you ?

-I am the fairy who gave you the gift of changing human appearance for good or evil, this only works if you both want it. The proof is that your appearance has changed because you wanted it together.

-Thank you very much, they said to the fairy.

-You are welcome

-Since when did you give us this gift ? Asked Dino

-I gave it to you from the moment you were born.

-But why didn't mom tell us anything about this ?

-No need to get angry my darling, your mother doesn't know all about this.

-It's time for me to leave, I think your problem is solved.

-Yes the kind fairy, goodbye.

-Bye

They hurried back to the village to find their mother, but Rachelle did not recognize them. They introduced themselves and he recounted what had happened in the forest. She grew up and kissed them so hard. They only had one thing on their minds, wanting to know the story of their coming into the world.

-Mom can you tell us the circumstances of our birth ? Her eyes filled with tears, she began to relate.

-I am not the one who gave birth to you, you are princes.

-Princes? They retorted, while being surprised by this revelation.

-It is the queen of this kingdom who is your biological mother, however she was ashamed of you and decided to make you kill.

-It's sad, this queen will end up deformed like us, they said, looking at each other.

-My darlings, you can forgive her, because my nephew to whom she recommended to end your lives has decided to entrust me with your care.

-But we didn't kill her, we just changed her appearance.

-It's as you want...

-What happened next?

I have decided to raise you as my own children. Dino and Dina I love you with all my heart.

-We love you too, mom.

After regaining a good appearance, Dino and Dina were adored by everyone. All those who rejected them came to ask their forgiveness. This is how they free themselves from their state...

Queen Graciella could not conceive again after giving birth to the twins, because she became sterile. A few time later, she became deformed as the twins had wished, everyone avoided her. The king learned that his children were alive and decided to banish her from the village, because of the lies and the harm she wanted to do to the Princes. He went to collect his twins and married their adoptive mother. They became a real family and lived happy.

The princess with the seven gifts

Once upon a time, there lived a king and a queen in a palace. From their union, a daughter was born. The royal family, guards and subjects experienced moments of joy until the day their kingdom was bewitched, because the sun did not rise more, the forest deteriorated, the animals became bruised, the rivers dried up, the wind stopped blowing and the rains stopped falling. Everyone wondered about this geological change in vain. However, she is a wicked witch who...

Princess Gabriella learned that everything was going wrong in her kingdom and began to grieve. One day, while she was pensive in her room, a fairy appeared to her.

-Hello princess

Hello, who are you ?

-I am a fairy and I can see your sorrow. Know that you can save your kingdom.

-How?

-You have seven gifts.

-Ah good ? Which ones ?

-The gift of animals which consists of giving them life, that of water to replenish the rivers, for the sun which gives you allows you to ensure that it rises and sets in a region like yours, that of the wind to appease the storms, that of the rain which you use to make water fall on the earth and finally the gift of trees to control the forest.

-Okay, but that's only six. What is the seventh ?

-I have no right to reveal it to you, you have to find it on your own and it is only after having discovered this one that you

Will be able to handle all your gifts.

-What am I supposed to do ?

-You have to go on an adventure. You have to do it my child, your kingdom has been bewitched and you are the only one

No one who can save him.

-Okay, I'm going to get ready and tell my parents...

-Good luck

-Thanks

The princess left... Along the way, she met the evil witch disguised as a fairy. The latter tried to dissuade her, but young Gabriella did not listen to him and continued on her way. After hours of walking, she decided to rest at the foot of a tree, sleep took her and she had a dream in which she saw from afar a garden where all the flowers were withered. As soon as the princess crossed this spatial frame, everything became luminous, because each flower found its texture, which brought out the beauty of the garden. Some time later, she woke up without however have the slightest idea of the meaning... Exhausted from walking, Gabriella fell back asleep until the evening. A prince from a very small kingdom came to find her at the foot of the tree and woke her up.

-Good evening young lady

-Good evening

-What are you doing here alone ?

-Nothing at all, I was resting.

-Where are you from ?

-Who are you to question me ?

-My name is Yvan, I live in a small country not far from here, but only... He suddenly became sad.

-I'm Gabriella, I'm delighted to meet you. Is there something wrong with your Kingdom? Their concerns tormented them so much that they forgot to introduce themselves as prince and princess.

-Indeed Gabi

-What did you call me ?

-Gabi

-My name is...

-I know, it's just a nickname I found for your name.

-Ok, Yvan what's wrong ?

-It has been two years since my country was nocturnal, because we have not seen the light of day or the light of night

For a long time ; everything is dark with us

-It's strange

-Why do you say that ?

-Because my kingdom has been experiencing troubles like this for months. It's even better at home, being since it is only the absence of light that is causing you a problem. In my region, everything is bruised : animals, plants and many others.

-It's catastrophic !

-I'm not making you say it.

-What can we do to fix it ?

-A fairy made me understand that I have seven gifts, however she revealed six to me. I have to find the seventh all alone, she said.

-Great that means you can...Wait a minute, why didn't you save your kingdom ?

-Simply because I need to discover my seventh gift to be able to wield all the others.

-Ah okay, can you tell me about your donations ?

-I have the gift of water, animals, the sun...What's the point of knowing all this if I can't use it ?

-Calm down Gabi, I'm here and I'll help you find it. I invite you to my kingdom.

-To do what ? Do you want my presence to plunge you deeper into darkness ?

-Don't be pessimistic ! Do you want to spend the night at the foot of this tree all alone ?

Ok...I will follow you

They left, as they approached the country of Prince Yvan, sparks of light appeared. Once on site, the entire area was lit up.

-Wow, shouted the prince. Do you see what I see ?

-No

-The light ! You're lucky eh, how come the day you arrive here, we have the light.

-I have nothing to do with it.

Everyone was happy, because the light problem was solved in this region, even if the population unaware...However, Yvan already suspected that the princess's seventh gift is light. To confirm this, he brought him to his secret garden where everything was faded. When Gabriella entered, everything became bright, the flowers sparkled, it was at that moment that she remembered the dream she had during the day.

-Gosh, it's like in my dream.

-There is no longer any doubt. Your seventh gift is light.

-How do you know ?

-You can see it, right ? Since you freed this territory, there is light everywhere. In reality, I am Prince Yvan and it's me who is at the head of this little kingdom that you have just saved. I thank you from the bottom of my heart.

-Please, but don't overdo it, it's you who guessed it after all. Actually, I'm Princess Gabriella and I am going to save my kingdom, since I have just discovered my seventh gift.

-Okay my princess ! I can accompany you if you wish.

-No my prince, it's not worth it.

She went to save her region as well as all those who experienced the same fate in the surrounding area. Thanks to her gifts, all the kings of the neighboring countries proposed to Princess Gabriella to marry their son, but she declined their request to marry Prince Yvan. The taste for life returned forever in all the countries which had been bewitched.

The hand

In a grassy savannah, lived an eight-year-old child and her family of giraffes. This one was so flourished among these species, because they taught her their way of life and protected her. Dora and her family were alone in their zone...One day, the little girl had a dream in which she found herself among her peers, humanly speaking. The latter were happy to see her so well that they welcomed her warmly. The same dream became recurring, which disturbed the little girl and prompted her to confide in the mother giraffe.

-Can I ask you a question? she asked one morning.

-No worries my child.

-Do you believe that apart from me, there are other humans in this world?

-Of course my darling, it was a woman who gave birth to you.

-Ah good? How did I get here? She asked as she didn't remember anything.

-I cannot answer your question clearly, my child. All I know is that one evening, when we were coming home from a walk, we found you in this camp, we were so delighted to see you that we decided to keep you among us, because we didn't know where to take you back, given that you didn't answer any questions about your family, you expressed yourself very well.

-That's nice! If I have a family, that would mean you're not my family, right?

-We are your family, but before joining us, you already had one, since you came from somewhere.

-It's probably her I'm seeing...

-What are you talking about ?

-For some time now, I have been dreaming that I have found a family and I feel at home. Do you think this could become reality ?

-Why think about returning to your loved ones ? Are you not happy here among us ?

-Yes I am, but I keep having the same dream. Sometimes I feel like I'm in real life and then everything suddenly, I wake up. It really bothers me. Flowing tears.

-Calm down my darling, try to relax so you don't think about it anymore.

-Okay mother giraffe !

However, the same dream became repetitive for months, which disturbed her emotionally and led her to reunite her family to tell them about his intentions...It consisted of a male giraffe, a female giraffe and two giraffes.

-Good evening everyone

-Good evening, replied the family.

-I have gathered you here to talk to you about something.

-We are listening to you, asserted the male giraffe.

-I've been seeing a family in my dreams for a while.

-What is she talking about ? The male giraffe asked the female.

-She probably misses her family, that's why she sees them all the time in her dreams, she replied quietly.

-I decided to make them while trying to find her.

-Don't go, Dora, the two giraffes said to her, crying.

-Where are you going, my little one ? Questioned the male giraffe.

-Anywhere, as long as I find her.

-You are only eight years old, my child. Have you thought about the dangers you are running ? Asked the female giraffe.

-Yes Dora, mom is right. There are ferocious animals that could attack you like lions.

-I braved these dangers by coming here, didn't I ?

-Do you know how you got here ? asked the female giraffe. The little girl burst into tears and answered

-I don't remember anything, but I suffer enormously deep inside and I think that the only way to free myself is emotionally, it's finding my family.

-Listen Dora, we love you so much to accept losing you overnight. This is what we are going to do. I will go
To meet your family and then I will take you to them.

Thank you father giraffe!

The family, the giraffes and the little one fell asleep and woke up early. After breakfast, Dora Decided to get some air a few meters from their camp. On the way, she found a hand. She took it and compared to his own.

-Gosh, it's identical to mine. She looked at it for a long time. At the moment when she wanted drop off, she began to speak.

-Don't leave me here alone. Stunned...

-Can you speak?

-As you can see.

-But you don't have a mouth, you're just a hand.

-Yes, except that I'm not like yours, besides it was me who brought you here and I can bring you back to your family that you keep seeing in your dreams.

-So it's thanks to you that I got here?

-You just said it.

-How do you know that I dream of a family? Why do you think it's mine?

-I just told you that I am not the same as your hands, I know everything.

-Ah I see, you are magical.

-That's exactly the word: magical, magical, extraordinary...You can say it again.

-You're really funny. Smiling

-Can we go now?

-Where?

-With your family.

-There's no need, the father giraffe said he would go meet himself and take me back to her.

-And how? Does he know your family?

-I don't know.

-I bet you didn't tell them anything about your family, because you don't remember anything

-How do you know?

-I erased everything from your memory to allow you to have a pleasant stay with your new family, but don't worry, I'll fix it as soon as possible. You must know that the father giraffe only reassured you to prevent you from leave.

However, the decision is yours. Do you want to stay here or go and join your family ?

-I want to find my family, but I don't want to abandon them either, because they looked after me a lot...

-Let's go to your people, we will come back to get them.

-Give me time to say goodbye to them.

-Don't go there.

-Why ?

-It's obvious, right ? We won't let you go.

-Okay

Dora set off with the hand. After a few kilometers of walking, the little girl and the hand

Encountered a hungry lion who chased them, his hand being gripped on his shoulder, he ran with all his might.

Strength while crying, or the hand reassured her.

-Don't be afraid little one, with me you are in no danger. At the moment when the lion wanted to pounce on her, the hand made a

Magic trick and they disappeared to a distant kingdom.

-Thank you for saving me from that animal, hand.

-Please.

-Where are we ?

-In your kingdom let's see ! Do you see this palace ?

-Yes

-It's yours and your family, go ahead and introduce yourself...

-Okay, can you come with me ?

-Yes, but no one else can see or hear me except you.

Arriving at the palace, Dora rang the bell and one of her guards came to open the door.

-Good morning

What are you doing there little one and who are you ?

-My name is Dora.

-The princess ?

I'm not a princess, I'm simply Dora. She replied because she didn't remember anything anymore. Yet the

The guard recognized her as soon as she gave her first name. He brought her into the palace and went to warn the king and queen, who came in haste to welcome him.

-Princess! They shouted, being delighted to see her.

-Why do you call me that ?

-Because you are Princess Dora, they both said.

-How do you know my name ? Are you my parents ?

-Of course ! Have you forgotten us ? they asked together.

-Yes... No hesitant.

-It doesn't matter, what matters is that you're back, said the queen.

-Welcome home my princess, said the king, giving her a hug.

-Thank you, my king !

The King issued an alert to announce the return of his daughter. This is how all the subjects of the kingdom came to his encounter. So it was in front of everyone that she learned her story.

-How is your giraffe family doing ? Questioned the queen.

-Everyone is fine, how do you know I was with the giraffes my queen ?

-Apparently you don't remember anything. I'm going to remind you what happened. You were only three years old when you started saying the word giraffe. You spent the time saying it every morning when you woke up. We understood that you dreamt of these species. What concerned us was that you seemed emotionally disturbed because of these dreams that were recurring. At five years old, you made us understand that you wanted to meet this family of giraffes that is the subject of your dreams. We tried to dissuade you, but in vain, because you left alone one morning without saying goodbye and we immediately understood...

-Gosh, that's strange !

-What is strange my princess ? Asked the king.

-It's exactly the same thing that happened to me there and that's what pushed me to look for you.

-It's great, because you found us, welcome back to your family my princess. Affirmed the queen.

-Thank you my queen !

-Where does this family live...

-In the savannah my king.

-How did you manage to get there alone ?

-It is thanks to the hand that brought me and brought me back.

-The hand ? Everyone asked being surprised.

-Yes

-Where is she? Questioned the king.

-She is here with me, but no one else can see or hear her except me.

-Tell him thank you for us, asserted the king and queen.

The little girl wanted to convey the message when suddenly the hand interrupted her.

-There's no point, I heard everything.

The king ordered the guards to take care of his daughter so that she would be splendid like a real princess, then they gave him something to eat and drink. The hand was still there. Until the day the king recommended his daughter to return

To the savannah in the company of a few guards to look for the family of giraffes who had supervised her...In order to thank her and let her celebrate the return of the princess in their company. The same day they went and Returned, because the hand protected them through its magic. It was with tears of joy that Dora thanked her a lot and the latter decided to leave. His majesty organized a grand celebration in honor of his daughter.

Morality

We must know how to understand the signs of life in order to have a certain resistance in the face of torments... Because if the king and the queen were lamenting because of the disappearance of their daughter, they could lose their lives. It was painful to know she was far from them, but since they already suspected that this would happen...

The white peoney

Once upon a time, in a habitat located in the heart of a distant kingdom, there lived a ten-year-old boy who had lost his mother, the only parent he had, because of an evil witch...Julien was brave and dreamed of becoming a florist.

One day, he decided to make a small garden behind his house. So he planted : the violet, the daisy, the rose and the white peony. The little orphan took care of these flowers every day, this is how they grew from day to day, and beautify the garden. However, the wicked witch who...returned to end her life, but she did not did not succeed in her attempt, because the spell she had cast on the orphan only made him blind. Total lack of vision prevented him from tending his flowers. But they were smart and could talk.

-Have you made the same observation as me, my friends ? Asked the violet.

-Which ? Questioned the daisy and the rose.

-Our father no longer takes care of us.

-Oh yes ! That's true. Asserted by the latter.

-Hello ! Are you with us ? Asked the rose with the white peony who however did not answer.

-Maybe she doesn't speak, said the daisy.

-Ha ! Shouted the violet to make fun of it.

-How can she not speak with all her splendor ? asked the rose.

-Hum ! They said, this is how they provoked the white peony daily, on the contrary this the latter remained indifferent. Despite his handicap, Julien began to walk in his garden, when he managed to find a way to do so.

-Friends, our father came to visit us, cried the violet.

Welcome among us, said the marguerite to Julien.

-Don't worry my darling, he can't hear, because he's a human, he's not like the rose tells us. Julien walked around the garden, then returned home. Which made the flowers wonder.

-What's wrong with him ? How can he come and go without... ? asked the violet

Others.

-Have you not noticed that he has become blind ? Asked the daisy.

-Of course I noticed it but...replied the violet.

-But what ? The others asked in an authoritative tone.

-It's okay, don't hit me. At least I care about us, I'm not like the white one.

-Leave her alone, can't you see that she has a handicap ? Questioned the rose.

-Which ?

-She's mute, let's see! replied the others.

Three months passed and the three flowers continued to mock the white peony. One day, while Julien

Came to relax in the garden, the white flower welcomed him.

-Welcome among us. Julien asked: « Who is there ? » Since no one answered, he continued walking. Other flowers were stunned to hear the white peony.

-So you can talk ? They asked him. The white peony was in reality Julien's late mother and as a human being, she could not exchange With the other flowers. She had given a part of herself to her son by saving his life, at the moment when she countered the spell that the wicked witch had cast on him. This is the reason why he lost his sight, because fate did not could be completely canceled. So, to the question asked by the other flowers, she could not answer. The little one the orphan approached the white peony again and she greeted him.

-Hi! Intrigued, he asked: "Who is it ? »

-It's the white one talking to you, asserted the other flowers, but Julien could only hear the white peony because part of his soul was in him and vice versa.

-I am the white flower.

-Gosh, a flower that talks!

-It's possible, since we're all talking, cried the other flowers, but the little orphan didn't hear them...

-I can help you overcome your disability.

-How?

-Just touch me and you will regain your sight.

I could never do that, since I don't even know which side you're on.

-Where you are standing, continue straight, then extend your hand to the left and you will have the chance to touch me.

The little orphan began this exercise, but in vain. Disappointed by his failure, he returned home crying. At night he had a dream in which he saw the position of each flower in the garden. The next morning he returned in haste and touched the white flower at the beginning. The magic of it worked and he instantly regained his sight. Once these eyes Opened he saw his late mother, at the moment when he wanted to approach her, she became the white flower.

-Thank you so much for giving me my sight back.

-You're welcome, my child.

-Did you call me your child? Are you my mom?

-Yes My little Julien

-I thought I saw you earlier, but I thought I was imagining things. Why did you become a flower

Mom?

-It was the only way for me to save you from the influence of this witch, since I could no longer find my appearance, I preferred to become a flower because I know you love them. Know that you have never been alone, I have always been there.

-Thank you very much for your presence, mom.

-You're welcome, son...very soon, you will no longer live alone.

-Ah good?

-Yes my boy!

-Who am I going to live with.

-Be calm my child, you will be among good people.

-All right

-Now that I know you well, I can go and rest, then she left.

-May your soul rest in peace mom.

As soon as his soul came out of the white flower, it began to wither. The other flowers were amazed by what they saw and were speechless, because they understood why the white peony could not speak to them. Two days later, a giant white peony grew in the garden and Julien was very happy...The latter could therefore communicate with the other flowers. The little boy again began to tend his garden, until all the flowers became ripe. His garden was beautiful, so much so that everyone in his community talked about it. The fame of the little boy spread to the king's house. He sent one of his guards to fetch him. Once at the palace, the king questioned him.

-Where do you come from, my son ?

-I come from this kingdom my king.

-Who are you the son of ?

-I lived in a single-parent family and my mother left.

-My sincere condolences son.

-Thank you my king

-Who do you live with ?

-I live alone with my king.

-Your talent has reached me, I wish you to make two large gardens in this royal court.

-No worries my king.

However, the king and queen had no children and willingly decided to adopt Julien. This is how he became the prince of this kingdom and a great florist, because all the kings of neighboring countries contacted him to maintain their gardens. A few months later, two large gardens were made by him and embellished the palace. The king organized a party to inaugurate them and to celebrate the talent of its prince.

Morality

You have to be ambitious and fight to make your dreams come true as long as the means allow you to do so. It is quite true that Julien's late mother watched over him, but his courage and determination earned him fame that elevated him to the rank of prince.

Ricky the female fish

A king and a queen lived in a large, flamboyant palace, but they were unhappy because they had no children. They prayed to God to bless them with a child. But days passed, weeks, months and even years, nothing appeared on the horizon. Seeing this, the notables advised the king to implore a child near the oracle of their kingdom. He categorically refused this proposal, then in the company of his wife, the royal couple continued to raise their intention of prayer towards the lord who ended up granting them prayers. After twenty years of marriage, the queen conceived and nine months later the crown prince was born. King Loïc was so happy that he made a party to announce the arrival of his son...The royal couple decided to call him Carlos.

In a neighboring country, a royal couple had just gotten married. After the wedding, the queen conceived and fathered a daughter. However, she was bewitched by an evil fairy who transformed her into a fish, then she was thrown into a pool of water. However, while the latter was doing her work, the good fairy was right next door... So it was the panic in this region, since no one could explain the sudden disappearance of the baby. However, the good fairy reassured the queen by promising to bring her daughter back safe and sound. Filled with hope, she told the king who advised him to entrust this problem to God. This is how they began to pray that the Lord would give them grant the grace to find their princess. The female fish was alone in this stagnant water.

-Don't worry Ricky, you will regain your appearance, said the good fairy, then she did a magic trick to give the word to the little fish.

-Who are you ?

-I am the fairy who protects you

-How do you know my name is Ricky ?

-I decided to call you that by myself.

-For what ?

-Because it's a name that's close to my heart.

-All right ! You talked about appearance earlier, what happened to me ?

-You were a beautiful princess when you were born. A few hours later, a witch cast a spell on you.

Why...

-But that's mean of her, why did she do that ?

-Because she is in bad faith.

-Please can you give me back my appearance.

-I can, but it's not up to me to do it, my mission is to watch over you. He will come who will help you find your appearance.

-Who are you talking about ?

-You will know at the right time, he will save you once he takes you out of the water.

In the other kingdom, Carlos grew up peacefully among his family. He lacked nothing, because he had everything as he pleases. Every time he went out with his guards, he gave gifts to members of his community. When he reached the age of majority, he dismissed his guards, to go out alone from now on. One evening he hit the road. After having gone through a few kilometers, the engine of his car stopped. Having no water, he headed towards a pond to collect...The young man took the first turn. In the second round, Ricky greeted him.

-Good evening

-Who is talking to me ? He asks himself, because he was all alone.

-I am Ricky the female fish.

-Hello Ricky, I'm Carlos. He was so humble that he began to converse with this fish without, however, worry about its nature. But he asked : « What are you doing here and why do you think you are a female? »

-You will know why I think I am a female later, of course if you accept...And what are you doing ?

-You can see it, right ? I collect water to cool my car engine.

-All right

-Why are you alone, where are the other fish ?

-I'm not really a female fish, can you do me a favor ?

-Which ?

-Get me out of this pond.

-How will you breathe afterwards ? he asked, perplexed.

-I was sure about it ! You seem simple, but you are like the others, who cannot act without asking questions.

-Who are the others ?

-Those from whom I asked this favor before you, you are the seventh person who refuses to help me. He answered fish sadly.

-I didn't say no to your request, but...

-But what ?

-Calm down !

-She told me that the one who will save me will come, by taking me out of this water.

-Who are you talking about ?

-From the fairy who protects me, I've been in this state for years, still nothing.

-What is your story ?

-I can't tell it in this state.

-Okay, but I still know that fairies have magical powers, why didn't your protector free you ?

-I asked her, but she made me understand that it's not hers to do it.

-What will happen after I get you out of this pond ?

-You will see it for yourself.

Carlos took his courage and took the fish out of the water. The magic worked and Ricky became a charming young lady of twenty years. At the same time, the good fairy appeared, to make Ricky remember her words.

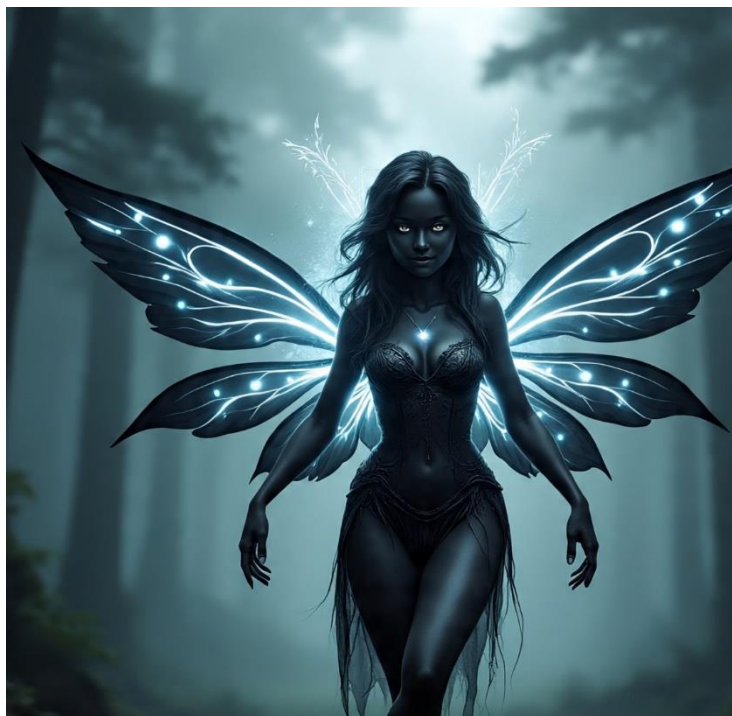

-I told you, he will come who... they repeated this sentence, smiling.

The prince was amazed by the beauty of the young girl, yet she told him her story as if nothing had just happened. With the help of the fairy, he brought the princess home. When the queen knew that the young lady was in fact the baby she lost twenty years ago, she remembered the words of the fairy. Immediately, she thanked heaven than this one. The princess kept Ricky as her first name. The king and queen made a great feast in honor of their only daughter found. Carlos took Ricky as his wife and this is how their countries were united by the sacred bonds of marriage.

Morality

Life is patience, perseverance, faith and above all trust in God. It took twenty years for the first royal couple have a child, yet the latter has grown up.. Which was not the case for the second couple who did not had problems conceiving, but waited the same number of years to become parents.

The fairy Lynette

Once upon a time, in a large household, there lived a teenage girl and her mother. Mother Sandra devoted all her time to her only child. She was a woman of good character. One morning, while she was going at her rustic occupations, she met Charlotte in tears, a little girl of ten who was looking for shelter. Mother Sandra and the little one got to know each other very quickly so that the mother decided to bring her back home, and make her his second daughter. She did not need to know his story, but only lingered on the distress and pitiful state of the child. But Nicole, her biological daughter, was not at all delighted to have a little sister, because she thought, she is a child of the street. However, the mother loved both girls equally. On the other hand, she gave Nicole the possibility of taking advantage of his birthright. Despite this, the latter had the impression that her new sister had to steal her place with his mother. This is how she set out to make life difficult for Charlotte, in the absence of her mother. She made her wash her clothes, sent her to the river alone. As soon as the little one returned, another commission was given to her and she went without hesitation with a hungry stomach, because her older sister collected all that was given to her as food. In the evening when mother Sandra came home, Nicole played the kind and attentive sister to Charlotte. The day after, the same treatments were inflicted on her, including caning, which demoralized little Charlotte. She wanted to run away like what she did previously to get away from her stepmother who mistreated her. In the same night when this idea crossed her mind, she had a dream in which she saw no one, but heard a voice that recommended her not leave there, because it was in this kingdom that she would free herself. This is why she endured the threats, starvation, beatings and the painful chores that Nicole was afflicting her for eight years old, without daring tell their mother.

One day, when she was already eighteen years old, Charlotte went to the river. She was so tired of everything she suffered so much that she sat down by the river, then began to scream while crying. I just want a shelter where I can live in peace. Now while she was lamenting, the fairy Lynette was behind she said

-Greetings, young lady, Charlotte did not respond, but continued to cry.

-Why are you crying ?

-Because my life has no meaning, she said, tears flowing, then she went home...

Arriving home, she found their mother already worried about her absence. As soon as she saw Charlotte with a bowl of water, the latter scolded her biological daughter Nicole, for letting her go to the river alone, being given that rumors suggested that this river is dangerous. On the contrary, Charlotte took the defense of her older sister by lying that they went together, she was just hanging around. This still displeased their mother who once again recommended to her daughter Nicole to...On the other hand, she did what she wanted. The next morning, as usual, Charlotte went to the river alone. She saw the fairy Lynette again and recognized.

-Good morning

-Hello Charlotte, you seem in a good mood today, unlike yesterday when you couldn't talk to me, Answered the fairy.

-It's because...The fairy Lynette cut her off.

-There's no need, I know your story.

-How so ?

-I'm a fairy, which also explains why I know your identity.

-Nice to meet you.

-Me too Charlotte!

-If you know my story, why did you question me yesterday ?

-It was just to make you talk.

-Okay Lynette, what can I do for you ? At this question, the fairy burst out laughing, which made Charlotte uncomfortable.

-I'm the one who can do something for you.

-Go ahead then since I can't do anything for you.

-Don't get angry Charlotte, I know you are a very helpful and respectful girl. Besides, I see in you Many other qualities, that's why I make you the star of this kingdom. With these words, the girl was speechless until she returned home. As soon as she arrived, her older sister scolded her for having taken a long time to reach the river. I didn't see how much time had passed, she replied. As she spoke, the royal court guards came seek from the king, to represent their country in a rural competition. Amazed, Nicole asked: « So what about me ? »

-The king only called on Charlotte, your sister, replied the guards.

-Tell the king that as soon as I free myself, I will come.

-Okay, then they left.

-Hmm, what happened at the river for you to be commissioned by the king ?

-it's probably thanks to the fairy.

-What did she do ?

-She made me famous with her magic wand.

-Wow! It's great! Charlotte, I'm going to get some water right now while you go to the palace, said Nicole without any scruple. It was the first time she called her by her name, because for her, she was just a girl from the street. They each went their separate ways. At the river, Nicole found no one, she sat down to waste time, thinking she would see...Discouraged, she shamefully returned without water.

Charlotte was to reside at the palace until the day of the competition. The competition consisted of planting a stem of yam which would produce abundantly. Known for her bravery in rural work, the king decided to choose for...Long before meeting her new mother, Charlotte was working in large fields with her stepmother, she told Nicole who went to tell everyone and that's how the king found out. The day of competition, ten countries responded to the competition, which took place in the same plot for all the participants, each was responsible for making a comment on their plant. A year later, when we came back to check, all the other plants were in flower, only Charlotte's was dry. She started to cry hotly tears, but the fairy Lynette appeared and reassured her: « Calm down my child, everything will be fine ». When people made fun of her plant, she remained serene. She was therefore the last to harvest her yam. When pulling the plant, it does not fail the king who suspected something sent his guards to help the young girl. Together, they did not succeed still not. So they decided to dig around the plant and they harvested a lot of yams at such a rate, until the night found them there. The next day, they continued to harvest the yam, which did not end up on the ground. What pushed the jury to declare Charlotte the winner. Her fame spread throughout this kingdom and elsewhere. She signed major agricultural contracts with neighboring countries. Seeing Charlotte's success, Nicole regretted all the bad treatments that she afflicted her and went to ask her, forgiveness. Without hesitation, this one...The prince of their kingdom even those of others kingdoms were scrambling to offer Charlotte a marriage proposal. She accepted Prince Raymond, the one whom her heart desired. She invited her mother and sister to come and live at the palace.

Morality

In life, you have to take everyone as you are, because no one knows what the future has in store for us. Nicole has ridiculed and mistreated poor Charlotte without however suspecting that...

The broken glass

There once was an extremely rich king and queen. They had two children : a daughter and a boy. Samantha was Collins' senior by five years. She was very solitary, because she preferred to lock herself in his room all day. Even though her parents called her to come to the table, the princess declined completely, claiming she was not hungry. However, after a few minutes she recommended to her personal servant to bring her something to eat...As she grew up, the presence of otherness repelled her. The day the princess turned fifteen, the king organized a big party for her. The day after his birthday, Samantha begged her parents to build her a palace in which she would live alone with her guards. However, the king and queen were against this grievance, because they could not understand the reason why their daughter was so lonely. A month passed, Samantha threatened suicide. When her parents learned of this, they decided to honor her request. The king had the princess build a palace, right near his own. A year later, the workers completed the work on the said palace. The royal couple made a feast to inaugurate it and install the princess in her new home in the company of her guards. Prince Collins begged his sister to move in too, but she categorically refused...

Once at home, Samantha ordered her servants to teach her how to do household chores, just to become independent. Six months after this accelerated training on the maintenance of a house, she asked her servants to return to work at the palace, except for two guards who had to secure her palace only at night. The royal couple, being on the lookout for what was happening with the princess, never stopped wondering about this subject. Samantha had managed to get rid of her peers. During the day, she remained alone in her immense palace, until night.

One morning, while washing the dishes, she accidentally broke a golden glass that the king had given to her as a gift. The occasion of her fifteenth birthday. It was panic, because she didn't want her father to find out. At this moment, the princess realized she needed assistance. Without wasting time, the young girl contacted her servant personal who came in haste to finish the dishes and do other work in the palace. During this time, she invited the three glassmakers who worked in the king's service. As soon as they arrived, Samantha explained to them what happened with the broken glass. However, they were not to tell anyone about this incident. She gave everyone the Photo in which this glass was whole and asked them if they could make it, they acquiesced. They promised the princess to return in a month to present their work to her, what suited them when time passed, each glassmaker came as agreed...But the princess was very disappointed, because none managed to make the broken glass as it was. She put on a good face so as not to show them her state of mind. It is so she asked them to leave. They were therefore disturbed at not having been paid, which prompted them to talk to the king. He was not embarrassed when he learned that the gold glass he had given to his daughter is broken. He paid them for the work they had done at Samantha's request. Despite this, one of them insisted on the fact that the princess was unwell, he replied in these terms : « Thank you for keeping me informed, you can leave my daughter will recover ». The king called on the princess who went to meet him without hesitation.

-Hello father

-Welcome princess

-Thank you my king

-How is your palace ?

-Very good dad

-Don't you have anything to tell me ?

-No father, on the contrary it is you who must inform me of something, given that you have mandated me.

-I just wanted to spend time with my princess.

-That's nice my king.

Subconsciously, Samantha enjoyed chatting with her parents and brother all day, but

She returned home anyway. The latter did not take the trouble to settle down when she saw the broken glass intact at usual place. Surprised, the princess thought she was dreaming, the worst thing is that he speaks.

-Good evening princess

-Who is there ? No one answered, because her personal servant had already returned and the night guards were not there yet.

-Didn't you like spending time in perfect harmony with your family ? As this glass spoke, it shone from where the princess understood...

Gosh, a glass that talks ! I must surely be making up my mind. She put it back in its place to go to the kitchen. As soon as she turned it on, she saw the same glass on the bench.

-Yes ! You don't get any ideas. I really talk and I would like to become your friend.

-For what ?

-To help you support your peers. With these words, the princess realized that she likes to be alone, but she did not understand the extent of the problem. Then ironically, she said, "I don't really see what's wrong with me, can I go and rest ? »

-Go ahead

The next day, the broken glass was on his bedside.

-Hello princess

-What are you doing in my room ? she asked with a commanding tone.

-I am here to free you.

-Free yourself from what ?

Solitary comfort

-What do you mean by that ?

-Can you tell me where your parents, your brother and your guards are ? Why are you here all alone when you have a big palace that can house this whole community ? It was then that the princess understood how she was so lonely. To this end, she thought of how her personal servant helped her clean up everything. The glass broke. She also remembered the day spent with family, she felt joy. Samantha became aware of her solitude in her immense palace. She thanked the glass for opening her eyes through his words. The next day, the princess decided to go find her little brother so that he could come and stay with her took back guards. She took the initiative of going to the royal court every day, to spend time with her parents. Finally, she decided to accompany the king to make offers to his subjects. This is how she became sociable and met a prince who married her.

Morality

You must learn to tolerate the company of your neighbor. In other words, we always need the other. Even if we have all the skills in all areas, we will always need the other and vice versa. The princess thought that once she knew how to clean, she would be sufficient in her immense palace, unfortunately the broken glass...

The key

Once there were animals in a forest such as : the majestic feline which embodies diversity fascinating nature as well as the emperor penguin which has a thick layer of blubber and a dense plumage to protect against freezing temperatures. One day, the feline went to meet the penguin to question him about the fact that although they are endowed with captivating beauty, they do not have the possibility of living near humans.

-Why do we live in such a harsh environment ? asked the feline

-Because we are wild animals.

-That doesn't mean anything, I think we have enough potential to live alongside man.

-You're not wrong

-What did you just say, my feline friend ? Asked the lion who appeared out of nowhere.

-What you heard my lion brother, don't you see that we are cut off from the world being in this jungle ?

-You cannot change the laws of nature, because it made us this way.

-We can still fix it. Furious, the other demands

-Who are you to make decisions here ? Don't you know that I am the king of this lush forest ?

-Why are you getting angry ? Did I say otherwise ?

-My brothers, calm down, let's try to find an arrangement. I agree that we must from time to time time to leave this place which serves as our habitat, to recharge our batteries with man. Asserted the penguin. It is why the lion began to think for a moment and said : « Hm since you share the same opinion, I give you two days to find a way to domesticate us. If you miss this deadline, it's because... »

-That's understood, they replied.

The next morning, the feline and the penguin set off on an adventure. They arrived in the savannah where they found the Elephants and giraffes. They interact with all the animals in the forest, which explains why they have welcomed their guests. The others did not waste time to inform them of their intention, however, they feared the fact that... On the contrary, these mammals were moved because they have been wishing for years

Leave their environment to cohabit with humans. It was then that they began to think about it, without no exits.

One day passed, there were only a few hours left for the second to pass. What worried the feline and the penguin when suddenly they saw a wild horse which had a key hanging on its neck.

-Hey! Who owns this key? Questioned the penguin.

-She doesn't belong to anyone.

-Where did you find it?

-Near a door.

-Which door?

-This one, fingering, because there was one who was a few meters away.

-Have you tried to open it?

-Of course!

-What's inside?

-Come and see for yourself.

They thus followed the horse which opened the said door. As soon as they entered, they knew they had found something convince the lion, because the interior was peaceful, since the children were having fun with dogs while the adults took care of the turkeys, the pigs, the goats... They left there very happy. The penguin closed the door, but accidentally swallowed the key.

-Oops!

-What is it? asked the feline

-I just swallowed the key.

-What? Questioned the others.

-Don't look at me like that, I didn't do it on purpose.

-Where will I go to relax from now on? Asked the horse sadly.

-You swallowed our only proof, how are we going to do this...The worst is that we only have an hour left

Of time. Just afterward the feline burst into tears. The horse will try to support the penguin's stomach, just rejected the key, but to no avail. Despite their sadness, they still decided to report to the king of the forest. When they arrived, the latter welcomed them favorably, which surprised them all. The feline related what happened, he didn't end until the bird admitted that he swallowed the evidence they had. The lion asked: « Is it this Key? »

-Yes, agreed the other three.

-Where did you find it? Asked the happy feline.

-Near a door. I opened it, went in and was stunned because I saw. What moved me the most was

Know that you have beaten me to it.

-How did you know we were there? Questioned the penguin.

-The key showed it to me, besides you can see. He approached and saw him and his teammates in the peaceful world.

At that moment, everyone knew that...In the end, they understood that the only way for them to become domesticated wasn't longer see man as an enemy, but rather as a companion. The lion uttered these words: « from now on, we must see man as a friend and we owe him obedience, this is how we can live alongside him ». After this decision, all the wild animals came together to celebrate this resolution.
